Prepare For Your Cruise

Updated September 26, 2022

We have relaxed our global protocols and travel requirements for most cruises. All travelers are invited to cruise with us, regardless of vaccination status. Vaccinations are not required on most voyages. Vaccinated guests will no longer have to test before boarding and only need to show proof of vaccination. Unvaccinated guests are welcome aboard with a self-administered COVID-19 test taken within 3 days of embarkation.

Some voyages require Enhanced Protocols including Alaska, Canada, Australia, Greece embarkations and remote sailings. Before you cruise, check our Enhanced Protocol Lookup and FAQs to find out if your voyage requires additional health regulation requirements. Protocols are only available for 2022 voyages.

MASK-WEARING

Masks on board are recommended but not required indoors or outdoors.

DISTANCING

Adequate physical distance from others should be maintained in terminals, on board and during shore excursions.

Air management and ventilation strategies, enhanced filters and other technologies are employed where feasible to increase fresh air and mitigate risk of illness

ELEVATED SANITATION PROTOCOLS

Enhanced sanitation procedures on board will include some changes in service style for food and beverages, continuous sanitizing of surfaces, will use EPA-listed disinfectants proven to kill novel coronaviruses, and more numerous hand sanitizer stations.

ENHANCED CREW HEALTH SCREENINGS

All shipboard staff will undergo daily temperature checks and COVID-19 surveillance checks. Crew will also be tested routinely.

MEDICAL CAPABILITY

A risk-based response plan is in place to manage medical needs, including dedicated suites allocated for isolation and other operational measures on board, and advance arrangements have been made with private providers for quarantine accommodation, medical care and transportation ashore.

EMERGENCY RESPONSE IN CASE OF INFECTION

For your peace of mind, a rigorous emergency response plan has been prepared to screen and isolate ill person(s) when necessary; trace, notify and isolate their contacts and arrange for medical evacuation if necessary.
